

The Driftless Writing Center is an all-volunteer nonprofit organization that connects writers, readers, and audiences through workshops, discussions, and public performances. We celebrate the unique culture of the Driftless Region and seek to enhance the creative expression of the people who live here because we believe that everyone has a story to tell.

Our work is made possible by the generosity of individuals, charitable organizations, area businesses, and hundreds of volunteer hours from our board of directors, and we are deeply grateful for this support.

Please help the DWC to build community and nurture the literary arts with a donation of any amount. Thank you.
